Passion for "smart house" technology

INAUGURATED IN 2005, DIGITAL CINEMA OFFERS COMPLETE SYSTEMS INTEGRATION FOR HOMES, COMPANIES, SHOWROOMS, HOTELS OR BOATS.

The "multidisciplinary and multicultural group" has experience in integrating and designing audiovisual projects, multimedia, theatre rooms, IP networks, audio multi-rooms, security control systems and intelligent lighting control systems.

The team are "passionate about completing different audio-video and 'smart house' projects, searching for new challenges and finding the most suitable technology that truly adapts to each, client's needs and expectations".

They provide customised technological solutions and engineering projects, taking responsibility for everything from advice on which product to buy and the design and décor of the surroundings to installation, integration, start-up and personalised after-sales service.

Committed to the notion that "a perfect smart house is also a safety and completely controlled house", they believe that the automation of domestic functions contributes to greater comfort, safety and efficiency in energy consumption.

In some cases, it is possible with an existing electrical installation to implant a basic home-automated system that operates with the lights, blinds and domestic appliances. A specific information network is required if a client, in addition, wants to incorporate other functions such as internet access, entertainment multimedia and multi-room.

Home automation provides a range of safety functions, from simple alarm kits with control panels and presence detectors to sophisticated remote control equipment with video cameras controlled from mobile devices.

Digital Cinema also offers a design service, which is free of charge if purchased as part of a system. If not, the amount is deducted from the cost of the system when purchased.

The design documentation package enables an on-site electrician to fully install cabling infrastructure, thus "giving you the peace of mind that when you are ready to install the audiovisual and home automation systems there will be no surprises or expensive re-work".

Located in the centre of Palma, Digital Cinema works with prestigious architects, real estate companies and interior design offices as well as individual home-owners.
